It's a sure way to get long, lovely lashes.

WINK, WINK
Because it would take a miracle mascara to give our lashes any length, we turned to Age Intervention Eyelash Conditioner by Jan Marini Skin Research. After three months of using the growth formula, our lashes were noticeably longer and thicker. Now we know why A-list celebs and Food Network star Rachael Ray are clamoring for it, too. We're also adding the Hair Revitalizing Conditioner, which just hit the market, to our secret stash. Long lashes and luscious locks—what more could a girl want? Eyelash conditioner, $160; revitalizing conditioner, $170. Call 800-347-2223 for local retailers. www.janmarini.com.

BATH BOOM

■ Fate led Shambhala Body Gallery owner Keith Emmons to Nodding Dog Coffee Co. in the Bishop Arts District. He noticed a vacancy in the area, so he and partner Robert Ungemach opened up shop to sell their all-natural and made-from-scratch bath products, which began as humble yet fabulous Christmas gifts for friends. Their lusciously scented soaps are a staple, but they also have lotions, body butter, and more. Anti-aging serums and bath bombs are in the works. Our faves: the Nefertiti lotion sticks and amber vanilla soaps. 320 W. Seventh St. 214-943-7627. www.shambhalasoaps.com.

{ HAVE TOTE, WILL TRAVEL }

If your itinerary this winter includes a sun-filled vacation to Caneel Bay, then you could be one of few to get your hands on an exclusive bag from Dallas-based couture designer Nicolas Villalba. The legendary St. John resort is working with Villalba to offer limited-edition totes for sale exclusively in its gift shop. The one-of-a-kind bags are handmade in one of four designs, all inspired by flowers that populate the island. Like we really needed another excuse to head to the beach. $350 each. www.caneelbay.com.

This bag makes any beach vacation brighter.

■ Johnan Ratliff was on a quest to create a soap free of harsh chemicals. Now the former computer programmer-turned-owner of Fraise hand-pours all-natural soaps made from botanical and certified organic ingredients from a North Denton County farm. Why we adore them: they make our skin smell divine, and the sweet scent of, say, lavender, gardenia, or mandarin orange fills the entire bathroom. Guests will love them—that is, if you decide to share. $12 each at Stanley Korshak, 500 Crescent Ct., Ste. 100. 800-972-5959. www.myfraise.com.
